Additional Information and Comments

E.ON is supportive of this Modification as it will provide reporting of collated AQ values which is necessary for Parties to decide if the values in the CSEP NExA table are no longer reflective of current consumption patterns.

Any subsequent changes made to the NExA table would allow a more accurate representation of consumption to be applied to new build properties; this in turn would benefit Shippers through the more accurate division of gas and transportation charges.

Similar exercises have been completed in the past few years to review the accuracy of AQ values held in the NExA table on an ad-hoc basis. This has highlighted the need to regularly complete such an exercise, we therefore support formalising the annual production of the necessary reporting to facilitate this.
